formally kissed hands on his appointment to that office. Yesterday evening the new Prime Minister was able to announce the complete personnel of his Government. No better earnest than the remarkable despatch with which this difficult process has been completed could be forthcoming that the conduct of our affairs will now be informed by that speed and sureness of decision which have so long been lacking. It is usually more advantageous in war to do the worse thing promptly rather than the better thing belatedly. We do not mean, of course, that Mr. Lloyd George's choice of collegeans has suffered by the rapidity will which he has made his selection. Experiment work at any price. Of course, it is ence may show that some of the new displaced, and we are satisfied that in such as ace he will not hesitate for a moment to transfer or discard them; but as it stands the new Government is incompar.

MEN AND OFFICES.

Mr. Lloyd George's Government, says The Fines, is framed to secure the concentration of power in the hands of five statesmen who shall be free to devote all their energies and all their time to the prosecution of the one supreme aim to which the Empire stands committed. Of the gnembers of the War Cahinet, two are Ministers with portofolio, two more hold offices with fluties that are merely nominal, while the fifth, Mr. Bonar Law, who undertakes the leadership of the Commons, is not expected to be a regular stiendant at its sittings. The breach which it makes with tradition is sufficiently shown by the absence from it of all Secretaries of State, and of the other heads of the great departments. It is one of those almost revolutionary innovations which the wonderful flexibility of our Constitution has always enabled us to effect in the great crises of our national life. SUCCESSFUL FRENCH COUP.

With the exception of some trench raids and mining actions, there was nothing to report on the British front during the week-end.

It is officially announced from Headquarters that, until further notice, only one communiqué will be issued daily.

The French report a successful coup de main against a German salient at the Butte de Messil, where enemy trenches were entered, and prisoners brought back.

BRITISH OFFICIAL. GENERAL HEADOUARTERS, FRANCE. SATURDAY, 10.45 A.M.

Our trench mortars successfully bom-barded the enemy lines north of Ploegstreet and east of Arras. Hostile artillery was less active to-day ex-cept in the Ypres and west of Le Sars.

MEN AND OFFICES.

The Government, continues The Times, not paly contains a great number of new offices, but it also includes an unusually large proportion of men without previous experience in official routine. That may constitute a danger, because it will tend to leave them more than usually subject to the influence of the permanent officials. These are, or used to be, an admirable body of public servants, and we have always refused to criticise individuals amongst them because they are unable to answer for themselves. But the responsible chiefs who answer for them will do well to bear in mind that the Civil Service has lately been tending more and more to produce a totally new type of official. These men are not content to remain administrators as public servants continued to be until some twenty years ago, it is very essential that Ministers quite new to the work of the Departments should be on their pard against the political atmosphere which pervades some of them. Meanwhile, the energy which the Cabinet are displaying encourages a hope that they will speedily announce something in the nature of a programme.

South of the Ancre we bombarded heavily various points behind his line. South of the Ancre we as intermittent hostile shelling. Hostile parties were dispensed east of Serse and in when neighbourhood of Gommecourt Wood.

During the past twenty-four hours there was much trench mortar and artillery activity on both sides in all parts of the Ypres salient and in the Loos and Hulluch sections.

It is efficially announced that only one communique per day will in future be issued from British General Headquarters in France.]

MENTS.

I understand, writes the Parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, that Sir Mark Sykos, Bark, is to be appointed Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs—an office now held by Lord Robert Cecil, in conjunction with his duties as Blockade Minister. Sir Mark is a richly-gifted man, who has travelled far and wide, and has specialised in foreign affairs. This will be a nost excellent appointment. Dr. Machararara descreedly retains his position at the Admiralty. Mr. Ian Macpherson, who rendered most admirable service to Mr. Tennant when he occupied that office, will be the new Under Secretary for War. I think the following appointments are probable for subordinate offices:

THREATENED RAILWAY STRIKE.

The men connected with the locomotive department of the Great Southern and Western Railway have, in the event of the company refusing to give them a permanent increase of aix shillings per week to their wages, or a war bonus of ten shillings per week threatened to abandon their work on Saturday next, and notice to that effect will, according to present arrangements, be served on the company not later than to-day. The men employed at the Inchicorre Works held a meeting on Friday night, at which it was agreed to serve notice at once. Similar meetings have been held in other towns connected with the company's aystem, for the attitude of the men in relation to this matter is not confined to the employes at the Dublin terminus. It seems that the men are acting without the authority of the Executive Council, that body having their claims still under consideration.

A meeting of locomotive men was held yesterday at Kilmainham. A resolution in favour of handing in notices to cease work was unanimously endorged. Representatives from the Cork locomotive men attended. Mr. Rimmer, the Secretary in Ireland of the National Union of Railwaymen, was invited to attend, but was yet

SHEEP-STEALING AT BALBRIGGAN.
Two men named Rathe and Shields were each redeced to six months' hard labour for having nucleus and entered tienesed promises in Balbriggan on the night of November 12th, and stolen about we dozen bottles of stout.
The evidence of the police went to show that a sheep had been stolen and killed that night from a butcher in the town, and that the carcase was atken to the house of Joseph Seaver, where there was evidence that preparations had been made for a feast.

A really dependable razor at a popular price. It opens flat, and can be stropped without removing the blade.

This construction also overcomes the difficulty of cleaning, which is the bugbear of so many safety razors.

MERCER'S CHARITABLE HOSPITAL.

£1,116 11 278 17 11

Strongly made, heavily silvered, and with blades that cannot be surpassed, it is used by many men who could afford a far more expensive razor, but prefer the simple efficiency of the "7 o'clock." The ideal gift for the soldier or sailor. There is no need to take the "7 o'clock" to pieces either for stropping or cleaning. With a single touch it springs open and locks rigidly for stropping or cleaning, and with another touch it instantly snaps together into accurately adjusted shaving position. (See sketches at top left and right hand corners.) Everything is compact, even to the attaching of a special strop in the case itself and the inclusion of sufficient renewal blades for a year's shaving. It is the only safety razor costing less than a guinea which can be stropped without removing the blade. If you buy one you are entitled to have another, sent free, as your own gift, to any friend on service. If you buy a Standard "To'clock" Set from any dealer during the way, the makers will send an exact duplicate set absolutely free of charge to any soldies or sailor friend whom you may nominate. The only conditions are that the free set must be sent to a regimental or naval address, and that you must send up the dealer's receipt to proce purchase, and stamps to cover postage (see coupon in every set). "7 O'CLOCK" STANDARD SET. Consists of heavily silver-plated stropping razor, six finest lancet steel blades, in compact blade sheath, special strop in hinged partition as part of the case—the whole in handsome case measuring only 5 in. by 2 in. by 1½ in. deep. 10/6 On Sale of High-class Dealers throughout the World.
